Autism Mental Health Needs:

Focus on Psychotherapy

Julie S. Rubin, Ph.D.

Individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders often have mental health needs that are not well understood. This workshop will help participants understand the social and emotional functioning of individuals on the spectrum, focusing on individuals with High Functioning Autism or Asperger's Syndrome. In addition, this workshop will describe a number of interventions that can be used with individuals on the spectrum as well as a model of psychotherapeutic intervention with individuals with ASD, using clinical examples. Participants should be individuals who engage in counseling or psychotherapy with individuals in the spectrum, or are training for these kinds of interventions.

Date: June 12, 2009

Time: 9am—4pm

Location: Voice of America Learning Center,
West Chester, Ohio

Registration Fee: $125

To register for the workshop, fill out the back of this brochure or go to the Center for School-Based Mental Health Programs' website:

Miami University, Department of Psychology is approved by the Ohio Psychological Association-MCE Program to offer continuing education for psychologists. The Miami University, Department of Psychology, #316402089 maintains responsibility for the program.

Julie S. Rubin, Ph.D. is a licensed psychologist in Ohio and currently the Director of the Psychology Clinic at Miami University. She teaches courses at the undergraduate level in child psychopathology and developmental disabilities and at the graduate level in assessment and diagnosis. At Miami, Dr. Rubin supervises psychotherapy and diagnostic assessments done by graduate students in the Clinical Psychology Training Program. In addition, Dr. Rubin is associated with the Center for School Based Mental Health Programs at Miami and has a private practice focusing upon diagnosis and assessment of individuals with ASD and behavioral problems as well as improving the educational programs of students with a wide range of developmental, social-emotional and behavioral needs. She conducts a number of in-services and workshops throughout southwestern Ohio focusing upon autism. Dr. Rubin is a former special education teacher and earned her Ph.D. at the University of Texas-Austin. Her internship was in the TEACCH program in Chapel Hill, North Carolina where she continues to maintain strong connections. She is a reviewer for the Journal of Autism and Developmental Disabilities.

Participants should be individuals who engage in counseling or psychotherapy with individuals in the spectrum, or are training for these kinds of interventions.
