

SYMPOSIUM

RUSSIA'S ENVIRONMENT: Prospects and Possibilities October 24 – 26, 2002 Miami University Oxford, Ohio

The focus of this symposium is to understand environmental conditions in Russia, from physical and biological perspectives, as well as institutional, historical, legal, and policy perspectives. Symposium participants will develop an action agenda for universities to engage in research, education and action on Russia's environmental issues.

Keynote Addresses:

Alexsey Yablokov, President of the Center for Russian Environmental Policy
Vera Mischenko, President of Ecojuris
Alexsei Yaroshenko, Forest campaigner, Greenpeace, Russia

Sponsored by:

Institute of Environmental Sciences
Department of Geography
Program in International Studies
Havighurst Center for Russian and Post-Soviet Studies

For additional information, contact

Dr. Gene E. Willeke
Institute of Environmental Sciences
Miami University
Oxford, OH 45056
513-529-5811
513-529-5814 (fax)
willekge@muohio.edu
<http://www.Muohio.edu/ies/Russia.htm>