

Are you dedicated to social justice and activism? Have you ever thought, "I wish there were a place on campus where like-minded individuals could discuss these issues."?

The Social Action Center (SAC) is redeveloping at Miami University, and we are seeking student leaders and representatives from organizations to form and shape this effort.

WHAT IS THE SAC?

The mission of the SAC is to provide students with resources, programs, and ideas that focus on social change. The SAC seeks to build community between engaged students and student organization in a spirit of collaboration for effective action. By providing a physical space in the Office of Community Engagement & Service (the Hanna House) for students to find opportunities and for student organizations to base their work, we hope to concentrate campus resources and efforts to affect change. SAC programming endeavors to encourage new interest in social change on campus as well as challenge engaged students to develop and deepen their commitment to service and social change. Finally, the SAC undertakes community projects that model purposeful and effective social action initiatives.

REDEVELOPMENT

After taking a break for the past few years the SAC is being redeveloped!

Take a look at these documents to understand what was done in the past.

Do you have an idea about what you would want out of the SAC? We want to hear about your idea!

GET INVOLVED!

We are seeking students and representatives from organizations to form and shape this effort.

Members of the SAC Advisory Committee will work collaboratively with the staff members at the Office of Community Engagement & Service to develop a mission and vision for the forthcoming center. The input of the SAC Advisory Committee is essential to this collaborative effort, and will continue to meet once the SAC is operating to ensure that we stick to our collective task.

If you are interested in participating in the SAC Advisory Committee please contact Louise Mettler at mettlersl@muohio.edu or 513-529-2961.
