

Dr. Geralyn Timler

Please welcome our newest faculty member in the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology. Dr. Geralyn Timler joins us this Fall 2009 semester in the area of child language. Her previous research has included work with choice-making and requesting of mentally retarded individuals and the communication skills of school-age children with alcohol-related disabilities. She has served as a clinical supervisor in two clinics, a speech-language consultant, a director of speech and language services, and a staff SLP at a speech and hearing center.

Dr. Timler has taught a variety of courses, including Language Development in Children, Language Disorders in School-aged Children, and Introduction to Speech and Language Disorders. She has also acted as a research mentor to graduate and undergraduate students for the past seven years.

We are excited and delighted to have her join our faculty at Miami University.
